Old Timers' Day In Collinwood Is This Saturday

Old Timers' Day, the day that many in Collinwood and around Wayne County look forward to all year, is almost here! The festival is taking place this Saturday, September 3. Hosted by the Collinwood Beautification Board, the event provides a great opportunity for everyone in the community to get together for fun, food, and fellowship!

Crowds of people begin to gather in downtown Collinwood beginning very early on the day of the event. Many people will be out and about at sun-up to enjoy the country breakfast offered by McGlamery Baptist Church. From breakfast on, activities continue in anticipation for the big parade. That's when the park is usually at its fullest. By 8 a.m., vendor booths will be in full swing, showcasing local arts and crafts, homemade goodies, and delicious food. Collinwood Mayor Glenn Brown will lead everyone in prayer to start the day.

The winning slogan for this year's event, "Come Home for Old Timers' Day," was submitted by Margaret Dillinger of Fairfax, Virginia. This year's Mr. and Mrs. Old Timer are James and Sherline Morris, who will head up the Old Timers' Day Parade that begins at 10:00 a.m. Lineup for the parade will be from 9:00 – 9:30. For more information on the parade, call Jerdie Ayers at 931-722-1099.

Clifton Riverfront Park To Be Dedicated In Honor Of Sergeant David Brown

On September 10, 1967, while moving in support of a sister company, southwest of Con Thien on Hill 48, Sergeant David Brown's platoon came under devastating enemy rocket, mortar, automatic weapons, small arms, and grenade fire from a numerically superior enemy force. Quickly assessing the situation, Sgt. Brown established a defensive position and brought fire to bear on the enemy. With complete disregard for his own safety, he charged the enemy positions, hurling grenades and temporarily disrupting an enemy assault. Upon depleting his grenade supply, he returned through the intense enemy fire and obtained an M-79 grenade launcher and again single-handedly assaulted the enemy positions, once again breaking up their assault and accounting for several enemy killed. Upon completion of this task, he moved among his men, directing their fire and encouraging them until he was mortally wounded. Sergeant Brown was instrumental in stopping the enemy attack and saving numerous Marine lives earning him the Navy Cross. On the day he was killed, he was due to be pulled from the field and rotate home. He had volunteered to return to combat in an attempt to rescue his fellow Marines who had been ambushed. His commanding officer recommended him for the Medal of Honor.

Rice Brothers Football Jerseys Retired At Wayne Co. High School

Austin Rice, WCHS Class of 2012, and Preston Rice, WCHS Class of 2016, were honored on Friday night at the WCHS football game against Summertown by having their football jerseys retired. The brothers, who were both phenomenal football players, each played in the Quarterback position at WCHS under the coaching of their dad, Rick Rice. Rick Rice is in his first year of coaching the Summertown Eagles this year.

"Such a special night, to be able to get my high school jersey retired alongside my older brother," said Preston Rice. "Thank you to everyone who helped make this night happen."

#14 Austin Whitson breaks through on the run.

The Wayne County High School Wildcats took another win Friday night as they topped the Summertown Eagles, 14 - 7, in a defensive struggle. The Wildcats managed only 147 total yards of offense, but Wildcat Ryder Butler came up with a 79 yard interception return for a touchdown to take the win. The defense came up with another interception and held the Eagles to only 139 yards of offense. With the win, the Wildcats are now 2 - 0 on the young season.

The 'Cats got off to a bad start against Summertown, failing to handle the opening kick-off and fumbling the ball to the Eagles. They got the ball at the Wildcat 27. Summertown ran three plays and were threatening to score. Wildcat Jacob Nienast intercepted the pass in the end zone and returned it to the Wildcat 2. The 'Cats couldn't move the ball and punted it on fourth down, with Summertown taking possession at the Wildcat 25. The Wildcat defense backed the Eagles up to the 34 and forced a punt, which went into the end zone forcing a touchback.

#52 Aaron Martin, #4 Ryder Butler, #18 Drew Bevis, and #31 Jakob Nienast team up on the Eagle ball carrier.

Starting at their own 20, the 'Cats marched down the field, going 80 yards in 11 plays with Austin Whitson scoring from 1 yard out. The point after attempt was no good so the 'Cats led 6 - 0 with 10:25 left in the second quarter. On the following possession, the Eagles took the ball at their own 36, and went 64 yards in 8 plays, scoring on a 3 yard run. The PAT was good, putting Summertown on top 7 - 6, just 6 1/2 minutes before the half. The teams exchanged punts and went to the locker room with the Eagles on top, 7 - 6.

The second half began with the Wildcats forcing Summertown to punt. The 'Cats took the ball at their own 10, but turned it over to the Eagles as they intercepted it at the Wildcat 37. Four plays later, Ryder Butler came up with the interception at the Wildcat 21 and ran it back for a "pick six" of 79 yards. Austin Whitson carried the ball in for the two-point conversion to put the 'Cats up 14 - 7, early in the fourth quarter. Summertown ran 13 plays, but were forced to punt. The 'Cats ran the time out to take the win.

The Wildcat offense was led by Austin Whitson with 65 yards on 15 carries and a touchdown. He scored the 2 pt. conversion and was 1 of 4 passing for 5 yards with an interception. Ryder Butler had 4 carries for 26 yards, and Drew Bevis had 21 yards on 7 carries. Eli McClain rushed 5 times for 29 yards and had one pass reception for 5 yards.

The defense came up with two interceptions and held Summertown to 139 yards of total offense. The Eagles gained only 86 yards on the ground on 31 rushing attempts. Jesse Dixon led the defense with 8 tackles, including 2 for losses. Aaron Martin and Jaxon Pope each had 5 tackles, while Jakob Nienast had 4 tackles and an interception. Talan Keeton, Drew Bevis, and Ryder Butler each had 3 tackles with Butler interception the Eagle pass and returning it for a touchdown. Baker Bryant and Carl Britt each had 2 tackles, and Brayden Littleton and Eli McClain each had one tackle.

The Wildcats will open region play this week as they play host to Fayetteville. Game time is 7:00 p.m. Come out and support the team as they take on the challenge of stopping a strong Fayetteville running game. "WORK HARD WILDCATS!"---Submitted moving forward with a very strong season! FHHS has placed highly in all tournaments played so far this season.

Spotlight On Frank Hughes Golfer Cooper Brashier

This week's spotlight golfer is Cooper Brashier. Cooper is a Freshman at FHHS. Cooper is young; however, he consistently scores in the top two in team rankings.

Cooper is the son of Trevor Brashier and Mary Brashier. He has a very bright future on the Frank Hughes High Golf Team!

#4 Ryder Butler carries the ball as #68 Ethan Holt, #75 Nolen Moore, #78 Baker Bryant, #14 Austin Whitson, & #53 Ben Thompson lead the way.

WMS Wildcats Take Down Richland Raiders, 24-6

#18 Case Butler hits the hole created by the block of #20 Brayson Harris.

#2 Mason Moore carries the ball against the Raiders as #76 Braylan Martin leads with the block.

#27 Daylan Van Fleet gets out in the open on a run against Richland.

Dove and Early Goose Season Opens September 1

Tennessee's dove season opens September 1 at noon (local time), the annual start of one of the state's most long-standing outdoor sports traditions. This year's opening day falls on a Thursday.

Tennessee's dove season is once again divided into three segments: Sept. 1-Sept. 28; Oct. 8-Oct. 30; and Dec. 8-Jan. 15, 2023. Hunting times, other than opening day, are one-half hour before sunrise until sunset.

Doves are found throughout the various regions in the state, but the highest concentration is in farming areas. The hunter must have in his/her possession a valid state hunting license and Tennessee Migratory Bird Permit at all times while hunting. Hunters must have landowner's permission to hunt on private land.

The Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency manages dove hunting fields in each of the four regions. For more information and location of fields visit <http://tn.gov/twra/article/dove>.

The daily bag limit for mourning doves is 15. There is no limit on collared doves. Doves not readily identifiable as collared doves will be considered mourning doves and will count

Clifton City Commission Discusses Nepotism Policy

The Clifton City Commission met in regular session on Monday, August 22, 2022. All commissioners were in attendance, including Mayor Mark Staggs, Vice Mayor Eva Ruth Warren, and Commissioners Layton Packwood, Stacy Huntingford, and Randy Burns. Also in attendance were City Manager Doug Kibbey and City Recorder Barbara Culp.

Mayor Staggs called the meeting to order. The invocation was given by Commissioner Burns, and the Pledge of Allegiance was recited by all.

A motion was made by Vice Mayor Warren to approve the minutes of the previous meeting. The motion was seconded by Commissioner Packwood, and the minutes were unanimously approved.

A representative from United Waste Haulers first addressed the commission, asking for an opportunity to bid on the city's garbage pickup. Following a brief discussion, Commissioner Packwood made a motion to stay with the city's currently contracted trash removal provider, RaeKar, for another five-year period. The motion was seconded by Vice Mayor Warren, and carried unanimously.

Next, a citizen in the audience remarked that some areas on Scenic Drive are in dire need of mowing and cleanup. Mayor Staggs said that the lack of inmate crew labor had been impacting cleanup efforts for quite some time.

The only item under old business on the agenda was the second reading of the 2022-2023 Budget Amendment Ordinance. Vice Mayor Warren made a motion to approve, and Commissioner Burns seconded. The motion carried unanimously.

First under new business was a request to extend the noise ordinance in the city until the night of the Horseshoe Riverbend Festival, and to reduce the speed limit on the city streets involved in the Festival to 15mph on that night as well. Commissioner Huntingford made a motion to approve, and Commissioner Packwood seconded. The motion carried unanimously.

Next was a resolution to apply for a USDA grant in the amount of $42,000 with zero match. If awarded, the grant funds would be used toward new hangars at the airport. Commissioner Burns made a motion to approve the resolution to apply for the grant. Vice Mayor Warren seconded, and the resolution was unanimously approved.

The next item on the agenda was a discussion of the city's nepotism policy. City Manager Kibbey said that the discussion came about because Vice Mayor Warren's daughter-in-law is running for a seat on the commission, and she wanted to make sure that there would be no issue of nepotism if she is elected. Kibbey said that he had spoken with Judge James Ross, and if family members of elected officials are elected rather than hired, there would be no problem with the nepotism policy.

Under departmental reports on the agenda, Police Chief Jerroll Henderson said that there continues to be a problem with dogs getting into people's city garbage cans. He said that he and his officers have encouraged dog owners to keep their dogs under control and out of others' garbage, and that the new larger garbage cans should help curb the problem.

City Manager Kibbey reminded everyone of the upcoming ceremony on September 10 to dedicate the Clifton Riverfront Park in honor of Sgt. David Brown, a Vietnam War veteran who was born in Clifton and died heroically in action.

Commissioner Burns inquired about the possibility of putting up a basketball goal somewhere in town for public use. City Manager Kibbey said that he had been looking for a well-lighted spot to put one up.

With no further business to come before the commission, the meeting was adjourned.

"CAPITOL HILL UPDATES"
From STATE REPRESENTATIVE
David "Coach" Byrd

Removing roadblocks to obtain a Commercial Driver License / Public Chapter 992 - To help alleviate the shortage of truck drivers in Tennessee, this law expands eligibility for Commercial Drivers Licenses (CDLs) and creates a program within the Department of Safety to enable qualifying incarcerated individuals who will return to society to receive a CDL prior to or after their release. It lowers the minimum age from 21 years old to 18 years old for people who can qualify for a CDL to drive in Tennessee. In addition, the law increases the resources and staff for the Department of Safety to allow for a quicker turnaround time for scheduling a commercial driving skills tests and will expand options for third party partners to conduct more commercial driving skills tests on the department's behalf. Because many local school districts are having a hard time obtaining school bus drivers, the law also provides more flexibility for school bus endorsement testing and ensures safer school bus drivers as well. Consumers everywhere have felt the effects of the backlog in moving freight across the country. The American trucking association currently estimates that the United States is 80,000 truck drivers short, causing supply chain issues across Tennessee and the nation. Became effective July 1, 2022.

Reinstating work requirements for SNAP benefits / Public Chapter 972 - A new law reinstates work requirements in order for individuals to receive Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits, formerly known as food stamps. During the COVID-19 pandemic, the work requirements for SNAP benefits - which require able-bodied individuals between the ages of 18 and 49 to work, train or volunteer for at least 20 hours per week - were suspended. The new law also makes clear that any waivers to the work requirement issued by the Department of Human Services must have just cause. Became effective May 2022.

Positioning Tennessee as a leader in blockchain technologies / Public Chapter 852 - Allows for the creation and recognition of decentralized autonomous organizations (DAOs) in the state of Tennessee. A DAO is an organization represented by rules encoded as a computer program that is transparent, controlled by the organization members and not influenced by a central government. The law allows DAOs to engage in business in the state, while also positioning Tennessee as a hub for DAOs. Though DAOs are still in early phases of development, there are over $9.5 billion in DAO treasuries and over 5,000 DAOs across the world, with 1.3 million members. But most of these DAOs are not being formed in the United States. This bill seeks to provide clarity in the regulation in order to bring more of these DAOs to Tennessee. Became effective April 2022.

As always, I am truly humbled and honored to be your voice on Capitol Hill. If there is ever any issue I can assist with, please reach out to my office by calling 615-741-2190 or emailing me at rep.david.byrd@capitol.tn.gov.

SUNRISE

By David Coy

Life and...

Life today is filled with more stress, more uncertainty, and more sickness that plagues our lives than ever before. In the midst of all this turmoil, we make plans for our life. This is normal and natural. We make plans for our vocation. We make plans for a family. We make plans for our future with our family. We make plans for safety and our future retirement. Yet, amid all this hope, expectation, and plans, life changes around our expectations and plans. It is during these life changes, especially the unexpected, that can be the most challenging and overwhelming. We expect to live a long, healthy, and productive life, but that is just not guaranteed. How often have we heard a parent say their child is supposed to outlive their parent, but even that is not guaranteed.

Life is what we make of it, especially during times of sorrow and tribulation. How we respond will influence and impact our future decisions and mentality. One thing is certain, if we prepare ourselves, we can endure life's unexpected and expected challenges. There is life beyond our sorrows and a purpose for us yet to fulfill. We need to keep on believing, keep on living with determination and purpose that we still have a reason to exist and others who need us to continue. There are people close by that are able to walk with us in our journey with grief and all our times of trials and challenges.

Here at the Sunrise Aftercare program, we are prepared to provide all who desire someone to walk with them in their journey with grief or may desire grief support group assistance. There is no cost and no time limit. We can be a listening ear of consolation for as long as you need us.

Two Arrested On Multiple Drug & Gun Charges

Jarrod McKinley Keeton, age 33, and Kayla Michelle Stults, age 32, both of the same address in Collinwood, were arrested on multiple drug and firearm related charges. Stults was booked into the Wayne County Jail on Monday, August 22, and Keeton was booked in on Tuesday, August 23.

Officer Darren Pounders of the Waynesboro Police Department filed a report stating that he performed a traffic stop on a vehicle driven by Keeton for window tinting being too dark. Officer Pounders stated that there was an alleged odor of marijuana coming from the vehicle, and he proceeded to conduct a search of the vehicle. At that time, Keeton was placed under arrest for outstanding active warrants from Collinwood, including simple possession/casual exchange, theft of property under $1,000, felony possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of prohibited weapons (a sawed-off shotgun). Those warrants were filed by Investigator Dale Palmer of the Collinwood Police Department.

The search of Keeton's vehicle allegedly revealed approximately one gram of marijuana, approximately 1.9 grams of methamphetamine, a glass pipe used for smoking marijuana, and a glass pipe containing meth residue. Keeton also allegedly performed poorly on field sobriety tests, and refused a blood draw. He was placed under arrest on the outstanding warrants along with charges of DUI 2nd offense, possession of a handgun while under the influence, violation of implied consent law, simple possession/casual exchange, possession of unlawful drug paraphernalia, and possession of schedule II meth with intent. Keeton was booked into the Wayne County Jail with no bond.

Stults was arrested on outstanding warrants from the Collinwood Police Department, including possession of prohibited weapons (a sawed-off shotgun), simple possession/casual exchange, felony possession of drug paraphernalia, and theft of property $10,000-$25,000. In addition to the sawed-off shotgun, Stults was also allegedly in possession of a revolver reported stolen from Florence, AL. She was booked into the Wayne County Jail on $47,500.00 bond.

Hay Quality: Test Smart, Store Smart, & Feed Smart

It's no secret that this year has been hard on farmers. Some producers in the county have fared okay because they were able to receive some moisture over the last couple months, while others remained bone dry for much of the season. One would assume since hay stores may be lacking on farms due to drought this year that many producers will be feeding hay early and/or be purchasing more hay this year than before. It would be wise for all producers to consider ways to efficiently feed their hay this year, so let's discuss a few ways we might could maximize efficiency.

- Test Your Hay—this cannot be stated enough. Forage testing our hay will tell us the nutritional content of our hay. Once we know that, we can match our hay stores to the stage of production our animals are in.

Take cattle for example: a lactating cow needs around 10-12% Crude Protein (CP) and 60% Total Digestible Nutrients (TDN) per day, whereas a dry cow needs 7-8% CP and 50% TDN per day*. If we find that we have lower quality hay that meets the needs of our dry cows but not the lactating cows, then we can make plans to feed the lower quality hay when the cows are dry. If you calve year-round, you would need to plan to feed to meet the needs of the animals with the highest nutritional needs.

We can also create a tailored supplementation plan should supplementation be needed. For example, if our cow needs 10% CP and our hay is only 8% CP, then we know we need to supplement only 2% CP. Feeding the exact amount of nutrients an animal requires is the most economical way to meet their needs.

Fortunately, it is very simple to test your hay! All you need is a drill, a hay probe (available for rent at our office), and a little time. I am available to help guide you on how to best collect your samples.

- Hay Storage—do not let your hay stay out in the elements! You have worked hard or spent your hard-earned dollars to get this hay. Allowing your hay to stay uncovered and/or sitting on porous ground can easily result in 37% if your hay lost. If you don't have a hay barn, tarps will work just fine to keep it covered. Old tires are also a great way to keep hay off the ground.

- Hay Feeding—be smart to avoid waste! There is always going to be some level of hay wasted, but the amount that is wasted depends on you. First and foremost, do not feed in low spots where water can accumulate. You also should be utilizing some sort of hay feeding system. Different types of hay-feeding systems have different expected hay losses, but any hay-feeding system is better than feeding on the ground without any containment, which averages a 45% loss. If you feed without at least a hay ring, I want you to look at your hay stores and realize you only will be utilizing half of what you see. The rest will be used as a B&B: bathroom and bedding! Given the cost of fertilizer, it would be wise to move your hay feeding spots around this year if you are not already. You could even consider unrolling hay (enough for animals to consume in a day is best). This will help disperse nutrients across your field from the hay not consumed and animal waste.

I hope this encourages you to take a close look at what methods you use to evaluate, store, and feed your hay stores. Remember to test smart, store smart, and feed smart! If you have any questions, please contact me at 931-722-3229 or mdharris@utk.edu.

sugar. Since they're already chopped up, frozen fruits and veggies are ready to add to smoothies, soups and stir-fries. And because they're frozen, there is no rush to use them before they spoil.

- Bulk bags of fruits and veggies are only a better deal if you eat them before they spoil. Buy only what you can reasonably eat before the produce perishes: take extra grapes or cherries out of the bag and pare down that bunch of bananas to what you'll eat.

- Enjoy your most perishable fresh produce such as berries and spinach early in the week. Save heartier produce including cabbage, carrots and potatoes for meals later in the week.

Protein: Meat, Poultry, Eggs, Beans

- Eggs can be hard-boiled ahead of time and eaten over the next few days for an easy breakfast, snack or quick salad addition.

- Buy a whole package of meat or poultry and wrap individual portions in freezer-safe paper; label each with the date and contents.

- Cooked dried beans are super affordable, versatile and may be frozen for later use. Thaw in the refrigerator or microwave.

- A potato masher can easily turn a can of pinto beans into delicious refried beans — a pinch of cumin, garlic and chili powder and you're ready to eat!

Cooking Tips for One or Two

It can be tricky when cooking for one or two. To make the most of your ingredients and to minimize dishes, mainly when many recipes focus on making a meal for a family and serve four to six people. But just because you have a smaller household doesn't mean you should abandon the kitchen for takeout.

A helpful strategy when cooking for one is to become friends with your freezer. This way, you can cook full recipes, portion out servings and freeze them to heat up and eat later. You'll save time, money and clean up by freezing soups, chili, pasta dishes, cooked whole grains and extra vegetables.

Grains

- Cook a batch of whole grains such as brown rice or barley and freeze in individual portions using a muffin pan. Once frozen, the discs can be stored in a zip-top bag.

- Have a six-pack of whole-grain English muffins or a whole loaf of bread? Tuck those extras into the freezer for another day; wrap them tightly in plastic wrap to prevent freezer burn.

- Visit the bulk bins at your local grocery stores. You can buy exactly what you need with no waste and it's often less expensive per pound.

Veggies and Fruits

- Embrace frozen produce, which can be just as nutritious as fresh and it's there when you need it. Choose options without added sauces, salt and

TCAT Hohenwald Fall Trimester Begins Sept. 6th

The Fall Trimester for the Tennessee College of Applied Technology Hohenwald will begin September 6, 2022. The trimester start will include enrollment for all programs, as well as a new class of Practical Nursing, along with many technical programs. Most students have attended an orientation concerning the campus, policies and procedures, but for those who have not, a new student orientation will be offered the first day. Admissions requirements must be met before enrollment.

All TCAT Hohenwald Programs offer both classroom and hands-on instruction throughout the week, Monday through Friday, with full-time students attending from 7:45 a.m. till 2:25 p.m. Daily attendance allows students to earn "6" hours of instructional clock hour credit per day, giving students 30 clock hours per week. All programs, such as Administrative Office Technology, Digital Graphics Design Technology, Electronics Systems, Telecommunications or Industrial Maintenance, can be completed within 12 to 20 months. Part-time schedules may be accommodated for students in most programs.

TCAT Hohenwald has a few openings in several programs at both on-campus and off-campus locations. TCAT Hohenwald offers an Industrial Maintenance Program in Waynesboro, as well as a Practical Nursing Program in Waynesboro and Collinwood. If interested, please contact TCAT at (931) 796-5351. Prospective students may apply online at any time. The online application may be located at the TCAT Website: tcathohenwald.edu.

The Shade Tree Band Contest will be at 6:00 p.m. This is mighty fine picking and singing. The Stage Show starts back up at 7:00 p.m. and goes until 11:00 p.m. If you have been once, you'll be sure to come back again next year!

Dear Dave,

My husband and I have always gotten by. We both make about $40,000 a year, we each turned 50 last month, and we only have a little bit of debt. Recently, my mother-in-law moved in with us due to health issues. Since that time, we have been struggling financially due to the added expense of having her with us. We love her and want her to be here, but we are unsure how we will continue to make things work. Can you help?

Renaye

Dear Renaye,

It's completely understandable that your mother-in-law moving in tightened things up for you guys. What it has also done is trained a spotlight on the fact you and your husband need to start behaving better with your money. That means living on a written, monthly budget, and telling your money where to go instead of "getting by" and wondering where it all went.

That sound you hear is a phone ringing, and it's your wake-up call. If I were you, I'd pick up. That call's saying you two have been disorganized and a little sloppy with your finances in the past, but you've made just enough money to get away with it. Now, you're going to have to get serious and get organized, because you've chosen to take care of her. Don't get me wrong, it's an honorable decision you've made to bring her into your home. But it also means some changes have to be made in terms of the day-to-day finances around your place. You're going to have to sit down with your husband and separate the wants from the needs.

The good news, Renaye, is that with a budget you can analyze, in detail, the need to cut expenses, generate extra income—or both. But for this thing to work, you've got to create a little margin. Because if you continue to just wander along without a plan, you're going to have a real mess on your hands.

God bless you folks. — Dave

New "988" Phone Number Provides Lifeline For Mental Health Crises

experiencing a mental health crisis or emotional distress, and they are able to resolve 80-90 percent of calls over the phone. However, individuals who are in imminent danger should call 911.

"We know that 988 is going to save countless lives," said Allen Bartels, Board President of NAMI Tennessee and longtime behavioral health executive. "We applaud all of the partners and agencies that are working together to provide this invaluable resource to people experiencing a mental health crisis."

When it is necessary for law enforcement to be involved, NAMI Tennessee believes it is critical for officers to be properly trained. That's why NAMI Tennessee provides free assistance to law enforcement agencies and communities interested in establishing a Crisis Intervention Team. Crisis Intervention Teams are community-based programs that bring together first responders, mental health professionals, people living with mental illness and their families, and other partners to improve community responses to mental health crises.

NAMI Tennessee looks forward to working with policymakers and the greater community to share more about the 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline and how Tennessee can continue to build a full system to help people experiencing a mental health, substance use or suicidal crisis and their families.

The 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline is a national network of more than 200 crisis centers that helps thousands of people overcome crisis situations every day, including six call centers in Tennessee. All contacts with the 988 Lifeline from people seeking help are confidential.

NAMI Tennessee is encouraging individuals experiencing mental health crises to use a valuable and potentially lifesaving resource. As easy to remember as 911, the new 988 phone number will connect callers with mental health professionals with the 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline, formerly known as the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline.

988 is available 24/7 to anyone experiencing a mental health crisis, substance use issue, or any other kind of emotional distress, not just suicide-related crises. People can also dial 988 if they are worried about a loved one who may need crisis support.

"988 is a gamechanger for all Tennesseans," said Jeff Fladen, Executive Director of NAMI Tennessee. "If you or anyone you know is experiencing some kind of mental distress, you can call or text 988, and you will be greeted with compassionate and accessible mental health professionals on the other end of the line. For far too long, this burden has fallen on our 911 operators and first responders, and they are finally getting some much-needed help."

NAMI Tennessee applauds the Federal Communications Commission's commitment to establish the 988 hotline, which began in 2020. After more than two years of advocacy and planning, the hotline opened on July 16, 2022.

With 988 now available nationwide, anyone can call or text 988 (or use online chat services at 988lifeline.org) and be connected to trained crisis counselors who are part of the 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline network. These crisis counselors are trained to help anyone

2022 Summertown Bluegrass Reunion And Music Festival Begins September 1

It's time for the fall 2022 Semi-Annual Summertown Bluegrass Reunion and Music Festival on Highway 240 in Summertown, Tennessee! Bring your musical instruments, dancing shoes, and lawn chairs, and sit back and enjoy all the shows, crafts, foods, friends, booths, dancing and good bluegrass music.

It is clean, wholesome entertainment for the whole family. These fun-filled days and nights, you will enjoy stage shows, instrument vendors, craft booths, jamming, clogging, a shade tree band contest, buck dancing contests, square dancing, two-stepping, waltzing, line dancing and most of all, some of the best people you will ever meet. They come from everywhere!

The campground is open now for campers until October 17th at dawn. Sites fill on a first-come, first-serve basis. Campers are lined up at dawn to get in on that day. There are 125 camp sites. The campground is located on Highway 240 in Summertown, 1/2 mile west of US Highway 43.

Terry and Tammy Pierce, organizers of the festival, travel countless miles and attend other Bluegrass Festivals to bring you the finest entertainers available at an affordable price. Terry Pierce is a noted square dance fiddler in his own right. He is up there with the big-name entertainers at the Norris, TN Bluegrass Festival every October.

Thursday, September 1 is FREE admission night for everyone. This is the time to take advantage of the good catfish supper at 5:00 p.m. and bring the family. Other fixings are available for the kids and the kids-at-heart throughout the three days of the festival: ice cream, popcorn, hot dogs, hamburgers, soft drinks, beans, and BBQ, and you can enjoy the open stage and jamming as the music floats all over the park each day and night.

On Friday, September 2, the stage shows begin at 7:00 p.m. The stage shows begin on Saturday, September 3 at 12:00 noon. Some great entertainers will delight you both Friday and Saturday. Also on Saturday, everyone's favorite "Buck Dance" contest begins at 5:00 p.m. with prize money in first, second and third place in each of the following categories: Lil Doll - 10 years and under, Jr. Dance - 11 through age 35 and Senior Dance - 36 and over.

The stage show breaks at 4:00 p.m. for supper break and to give you a chance to listen to all The Shade Tree Band pickers. These will be all over the park, with a number setup for you to choose your favorite. Take you a little stool, or chair, if you would like to go around and listen to all the bands. You will also see people dancing on boards to the good music.

Ribbon Cutting At The Bear Inn

The Bear Inn, which advertises itself as “the finest second-class restaurant and hotel in the world,” was the site of a ribbon-cutting ceremony last Wednesday, August 24. New owners Scott and Melissa Moore are pictured with State Senator Page Walley and members of the Clifton Chamber of Commerce and Visitor Center, who hosted the event. The Bear Inn is located at 2250 Billy Nance Highway in Clifton.

This week’s featured photo was taken by Mr. John Dumont earlier this month. The puffy clouds and evening light reflect beautifully off the waters of the Tennessee River in Clifton, making a landscape that would rival any location on earth in its beauty.

Thank you to Mr. Dumont for another great photo!

Nashville’s Buried Connection to Uncle Tom’s Cabin

By Bill Carey

It’s hard to overstate the importance of Uncle Tom’s Cabin by Harriet Beecher Stowe. It was second best-selling book of the 19th century (following the Bible) and was translated into 20 languages by 1857, which was remarkable for its time. The novel had a profound effect on the abolitionist movement and on the way average Americans viewed slavery.

In fact, it has been widely reported that Abraham Lincoln, upon being introduced to Stowe in 1862, said she was “the little woman who wrote the book that started this great war.”

Here in Tennessee, public school teachers are supposed to talk about the Civil War in grades 4 and 8, and specifically about the Tennessee battles of the Civil War in the stand-alone semester of Tennessee history in grade 5.

However, there isn’t really a connection between Tennessee and Uncle Tom’s Cabin, is there?

Actually, there is. But for 170 years, the world of Tennessee history has deliberately avoided it.

Richard Dillingham (born 1823) was a Quaker teacher from near Cincinnati, Ohio, who knew some free African Americans who told him they had relatives

CHOLERA.
We regret to learn that the Cholera is rather on the increase in this vicinity. On Sunday there were some sixty cases of cholera and diarrhoea at the Penitentiary and one death, the deceased, a man named Dillingham, (put in for attempting to run off negroes,) having been attacked about breakfast time, died, and was buried at half past three p. m. The malignity of the disease appears without precedent. We learn that a large number have been attacked on the opposite side of the river, many cases of which have proved fatal. This is a sad condition of things.

held in slavery in Nashville. In December 1848, he came to Nashville and tried to help these enslaved people escape. Dillingham was caught and jailed on December 7, 1848.

From its tone, the [Nashville] Republican Banner had no sympathy on the man.

“A man who calls himself Dillingham was arrested in this city on Tuesday night by Constable Maddux, in the act of kidnapping a number of slaves. He had them in a hack and was about crossing the bridge. This is a curious transaction for this latitude, as he could hardly expect one would suppose to get them off to a free state unmolested. He is in custody.”

Four months later, Dillingham was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary, which was then located near the present-day site of Charlotte and 15th Avenues in Nashville. Nashville’s largest newspapers endorsed his sentence, the Nashville Daily Union saying “we seriously doubt the policy of extending to such violations of the law very great lenity.”

Dillingham died a year and a half later, still in prison.

“We regret to learn that the Cholera is rather on the increase in this vicinity,” the Republican Banner reported on July 2, 1850. “On Sunday there were some sixty cases of cholera and diarrhea at the penitentiary and one death, the deceased, a man named Dillingham (put in for attempting to run off negroes).”

Dillingham was buried at the prison cemetery, which means his remains still lie in an unmarked grave somewhere near the corner of 15th Avenue and Charlotte (near a Burger King, as best I can tell).

Dillingham’s case was well publicized at the time. News of his arrest was reported as far away as England; news of his death in abolitionist publications all over the North. He was considered a martyr by people such as John Greenleaf Whittier, who wrote a poem in his honor. Prominent Quaker and abolitionist Levi Coffin wrote about Dillingham in his memoirs.

A year after Dillingham’s death, Harriet Beecher Stowe came out with Uncle Tom’s Cabin. In the months that followed its publication, many Southern politicians, editors and ministers claimed she deliberately exaggerated the horrors of slavery in her novel. That’s why in 1853 she wrote and published A Key to Uncle Tom’s Cabin – a list of people, facts and events on which the novel is based.

Chapter 13 of A Key to Uncle Tom’s Cabin is about Quaker abolitionists who were active in the Underground Railroad. Much of this chapter is devoted to the story of Richard Dillingham, the 25-year-old Quaker from Morrow County, Ohio, who was arrested in Tennessee for trying to help slaves escape and who died in prison a year later.

Stowe maintains that Dillingham’s mother pleaded with Tennessee Governor Neill Brown to pardon her son, to no avail. Stowe also claims that while in prison, Dillingham earned so much respect from the warden that he was tending the sick when cholera broke out.

“What must that system be which makes it necessary to imprison with convicted felons a man like this, because he loves his brother man ‘not wisely but too well?’” Stowe wrote.

The story of Richard Dillingham affected the abolitionist movement and was one of the many things that inspired Harriet Beecher Stowe to write Uncle Tom’s Cabin. My questions are these: Why isn’t Dillingham a part of Tennessee history? Why isn’t he mentioned in the Tennessee Encyclopedia of History and Culture? Why isn’t there a historic marker honoring him at the former site of the Tennessee State Prison?

"May God Bless You And Keep You Safe"

VINCE LOMBARDI ON THE HIDDEN POWER OF MASTERING THE FUNDAMENTALS

by James Clear

It was July of 1961 and the 38 members of the Green Bay Packers football team were gathered together for the first day of training camp. The previous season had ended with a heartbreaking defeat when the Packers lost the NFL Championship to the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Green Bay players had been thinking about this brutal loss for the entire off-season and now, finally, training camp had arrived and it was time to get to work. The players were eager to advance their game to the next level and start working on the details that would help them win a championship. Their coach, Vince Lombardi, had a different idea.

"This is a football."

In his best-selling book, When Pride Still Mattered: A Life Of Vince Lombardi, author David Maraniss explains what happened when Lombardi walked into training camp in the summer of 1961.

He took nothing for granted. He began a tradition of starting from scratch, assuming that the players were blank slates who carried over no knowledge from the year before... He began with the most elemental statement of all. "Gentlemen," he said, holding a pigskin in his right hand, "this is a football."

Lombardi was coaching a group of three dozen professional athletes who, just months prior, had come within minutes of winning the biggest prize their sport could offer. And yet, he started from the very beginning.

Lombardi's methodical coverage of the fundamentals continued throughout training camp. Each player reviewed how to block and tackle. They opened up the playbook and started from page one. At some point, Max McGee, the Packers' Pro Bowl wide receiver, joked, "Uh, Coach, could you slow down a little? You're going too fast for us." Lombardi reportedly cracked a smile, but continued his obsession with the basics all the same. His team would become the best in the league at the tasks everyone else took for granted.

Six months later, the Green Bay Packers beat the New York Giants 37-0 to win the NFL Championship.

Fundamentals

First

The 1961 season was the beginning of Vince Lombardi's reign as one of the greatest football coaches of all-time. He would never lose in the playoffs again. In total, Lombardi won five NFL Championships in a span of seven years, including three in a row. He never coached a team with a losing record.

This pattern of focusing on the basics has been a hallmark of many successful coaches. (For example, basketball legends John Wooden and Phil Jackson were known for having a similar obsession with the fundamentals. Wooden even went so far as to teach his players how to put on their socks and tie their shoes.)

However, it is not just football and basketball where this strategy is useful. Throughout our lives, a focus on the fundamentals is what determines our results.

It is so easy to overestimate the importance of one critical event or one "big break" while simultaneously forgetting about the hidden power that small choices, daily habits, and repeated actions can have on our lives. Without the fundamentals, the details are useless. With the fundamentals, tiny gains can add up to something very significant.

~INSPIRATIONAL FOOTBALL QUOTES~

Here are 30 of the most inspirational football quotes from some of the individuals known for their leadership, preparation, and ability to achieve success through more than sheer talent alone.

1. "Ability is what you're capable of doing. Motivation determines what you do. Attitude determines how well you do it." –Lou Holtz
2. "Leadership is a matter of having people look at you and gain confidence. If you're in control, they're in control." –Tom Landry
3. "You have to perform at a consistently higher level than others. That's the mark of a true professional." –Joe Paterno
4. "Football is like life. It requires perseverance, self-denial, hard work, sacrifice, dedication, and respect for authority." –Vince Lombardi
5. "Success isn't measured by money or power or social rank. Success is measured by your discipline and inner peace." –Mike Ditka
6. "Self-praise is for losers. Be a winner. Stand for something. Always have class, and be humble." –John Madden
7. "The only place success comes before work is in the dictionary." –Vince Lombardi
8. "No one ever drowned in sweat." –Lou Holtz
9. "No matter the circumstances you may be going through, just push through it." –Ray Lewis
10. "Nobody who ever gave his best regretted it." –George S. Halas
11. "It's not the size of the dog in the fight, but the size in the fight of the dog." –Archie Griffin
12. "When you've got something to prove, there's nothing greater than a challenge." –Terry Bradshaw
13. "It's not whether you get knocked

- down, it's whether you get back up." –Vince Lombardi
14. "When you don't give up, you cannot fail." –Adrian Peterson
15. "I have yet to be in a game where luck was involved." –Urban Meyer
16. "I may win and I may lose, but I will never be defeated." –Emmitt Smith
17. "There is only one way to succeed in anything...and that is to give it everything." –Vince Lombardi
18. "You cannot make progress with excuses." –Cam Newton
19. "Success isn't owned, it's leased. And rent is due every day." –J.J. Watt
20. "You can learn a line from a win and a book from defeat." –Paul Brown
21. "It's not the will to win that matters. It's the will to prepare to win that matters." –Paul "Bear" Bryant
22. "The difference between a successful person and others is not a lack of strength, not a lack of knowledge, but rather in a lack of will." –Vince Lombardi
23. "Set your goals high, and don't stop till you get there." –Bo Jackson
24. "To do things you've never done before, you have to do things you've never done before." –Sean Payton
25. "The man on top of the mountain didn't fall there." –Vince Lombardi
26. "Remember, once you set a goal, it's all about how hard you're willing to work, how much you're willing to sacrifice and how badly you truly want it." –J.J. Watt
27. "The most valuable player is

- the one who makes the most players valuable." –Peyton Manning
28. "Today I will do what others won't, so tomorrow I can accomplish what others can't." –Jerry Rice

The Importance of Teamwork: What Football Can Teach Us About Finding Success As A Team

by Grant Wistrom

Football teaches valuable lessons in teamwork that apply both on and off the field. Each player contributes to the success of the team, so understanding and trusting your teammates is crucial. With so many players on a team, the level of coordination and collaboration has to be strong. If even one teammate isn't invested, it can affect the entire team. Just like being a part of a football team, being a part of an office team requires the same kind of collaboration. You've got to know who you're working with, invest in the overall success of the business, and work at performing your role to the best of your ability. As with football, you'll likely experience high points and low points and need to lean on your team for support and motivation along the way. Football has taught me many of these valuable skills, and they easily translate to team collaboration off the field:

Leadership

A football coach has a great responsibility to the team. Not only are coaches invested in the success of the team as a whole, but they also aim to motivate each individual player. The coach has the duty of taking their many different players and creating a cohesive team that accomplishes what's needed. Managers in any work environment need this same skill set. They need to be role models who inspire the success of their team so that the whole business can flourish. They need to manage many components, just as coaches do. Managers who observe a football coach's ability to create a thriving team can learn to do the same for their employees. In addition to the coach being a strong leader, there is also a great deal of respect that the team has for their coach. This mutual relationship is important both on the field and in the office.

Learn from Failure

Football teaches us to grow from mistakes and to bounce back from failure as a team. Even great football teams know the feeling of occasional failure. It's never fun to lose, but a good team doesn't let a loss keep them down. With any defeat, a team can observe what went wrong and try to change their strategies for the next game. Professionals can learn to find lessons in failure in the same way. Football players will inevitably get knocked down, but they continue to get back on their feet. The state of failure is only temporary — it's what you decide to do with it that determines your ultimate success.

Importance of Bonding

Observing any great team, it's obvious how connected the players are. Great teams only get to that point through the hard work they accomplish together. No one player can carry the team on their own. Training will be exhausting, and the physical demands can test a player's resolve; but these shared experiences help the team grow together and build trust and loyalty. This proves true for other team environments as well. In a business, forming strong connections to your colleagues is a great way to build a foundation for success. Managers and employees need to join together in their dedication to succeed. Without these bonds, a weak group dynamic can be detrimental to the team as a whole.

Positivity Drives the Team

Every coach and player shares the same goal — to win. All the grueling work required is in effort to accomplish this goal; though, of course, in every game, one team will achieve victory while the other will endure defeat. Take a look at some of the greatest teams and you'll see that they remain positive, even in the face of defeat. A positive attitude has a much greater power than a negative one when it comes to a team sport. A positive coach can motivate their team better than one who dwells on a loss. An office team environment works in a similar way. Creating a positive environment where managers ensure their team feels supported and where one failure doesn't destroy moral will yield more success in the long run.

Importance of Accountability

When you're part of a team, your work isn't just for you. You train hard and show up for your teammates, even on the days when you might not feel as inspired. Your success is shared with your team, and you feel a responsibility to the group as a whole to do your part. A strong sales team will run in a similar way. The sense of accountability to the team will fuel everyone to perform at their best.

Whether on a football field or in an office, teamwork is a skill that can make or break your success. Only by working to-

Life Lessons From Football That Shouldn't Be Overlooked

By Mike McCann

While I had my share of injuries in a decade of playing football, nearly all came during my college years, when the speed and intensity ticked up quite a few notches.

I played football from the time I was 12 years old until I was 22. I earned a full scholarship to play safety at Charleston Southern University, and was fortunate enough to have my education — a bachelor's degree and the better part of an MBA — paid for because of my physical abilities.

The lessons I learned from football are priceless. They've helped me in my post-football career (yes, there's life after football). I learned how to tackle people and catch a leather ball, but more importantly, how to lead others and the value of practice. I learned life skills that many of my peers are still trying to figure out at 30 years old.

The media endlessly talks about the risks of football and the danger of collisions. What's often overlooked are the benefits that come from the game. The life lessons that young men learn while they play it are priceless.

Here are some things football taught me that I use every day:

1. How to compete: There are two types of competition: competition with others, and yourself. Football teaches both. When you face an opponent, you have to study film (research) and think critically about how to beat them (game theory), come up with a game plan (planning), and make that plan come to life (execution).

Individually, you must improve your body to become a better player. If you don't learn to compete with yourself and improve every day, you'll be the weakest link in the chain. That in itself is pressure enough to improve.

2. How to be disciplined: From the schemes our coaches drew up, to early-morning workouts, to the focus required to keep my grades above a certain level, I needed discipline for every aspect of the sport. By the time I finished football, I had no together and understanding each other can you perform your best as a team. Football is much more than a game. It's a great teacher, especially when it comes to teamwork. The life lessons gained from this collaborative sport can help professionals work better in their teams and achieve the success they are striving for.

choice but to understand discipline and enforce it throughout the rest of my life.

3. How to work (really) hard: 99.9 percent of resumes say "hard-working" somewhere on them. Think about your workplace. Are 99.9 percent of your coworkers hard-working? Probably not. This isn't to say sports are the only way to learn hard work, but it's a great start. In football, you can earn a name for yourself by outworking your teammates. It's an unfair advantage that's accessible to everyone by changing attitude.

4. How to lead: Leadership is a billion-dollar industry. Managers pay for leadership training, and they pay to learn how to lead themselves. Coaches lead teams, but only to a certain extent. Go to any high school football stadium on a Friday night, and you'll see more than a few leaders who encourage their teammates when the score isn't in their favor. Leadership is learned in many ways, and in football, it's learned early.

5. How to follow: With the apparent lack of respect for others we see in the news, this is extremely important. Before you can lead, you have to know how to follow. Study how other leaders do it, how they inspire others and motivate the people around them, and when to stand up for something and when to let the coach do their job. Leadership is rare, but everyone needs to know how and when to follow.

6. How to be accountable: Individuals don't win football games. Teams do. To be on a team, you must learn to be accountable to the people around you. We had a "one fail, all fail" policy on one of my teams. If one person was late, the whole defense was punished. In life, if you don't carry your weight, your whole organization can potentially be punished.

7. How to push others: During fall conditioning, when I was exhausted and wanted to collapse, I figured out how to get through the discomfort. I turned my focus to others and encouraged them. Americans spend billions each year on self-help books, seminars and courses. People search for something or someone to help motivate them. Through sport, we can mold future generations to know how to help each other.

Wayne County High School began its football program in 1950 under Coach Leon Garrett. That year, the Wildcats went 2-8-0. They played their home games on Lion's Field, named such because of the sponsorship of the Lion's Club civic organization part in building the facility. Wooden bleachers were built on the home side and portable bleachers were moved in for the visitors.

Coach Guy H. Buchanan came in 1951 and coached for the next sixteen seasons and posted a 75-75-12 record. Coach Buchanan led the 'Cats to their first winning season and a trip to the Catfish Bowl in 1954, coming away with a 12-0 victory over Savannah. Coach Buchanan was also at the helm when the Wildcats participated in the 1959 Crockett Bowl, the 1962 Natchez Bowl, and the 1976 Natchez Bowl. Coach

Buchanan also coached the girls' basketball team and led the 1973-74 team to an undefeated regular season and a state tournament appearance. That team finished with a 28-2 record. "Coach Buck" was honored as he was inducted into the TSSAA Hall of Fame in 1994.

In 1976, the current stands and press box were built by Wayne Metal Fabricators, Inc., of Waynesboro. The seating capacity is 2,372. Improvements are constantly being made to the athletic facilities at the stadium. The field now has Bermuda Sod, which was laid in 1995. It was donated by the Wayne County Sod Farm. A big improvement was the addition of the "Field House" in 1994. This facility houses the Wildcats' dressing room, a weight room, football coaches' office, equipment room, and a booster room. Construction was supervised by Coach Nicky Dixon and labor was supplied by CCA and volunteers. With the help and cooperation of many People, the Quarterback Club was able to retire the debt on The field house in 1998.

PAT BREWER STADIUM

The Collinwood High School Trojans football team was still in its infancy when they began playing their games at Pat Brewer Stadium, where they still play today. The stadium was named after long-time Wayne County educator Leon "Pat" Brewer, who is pictured above on the day the stadium was dedicated. Mr. Herbert Luker, (now retired) CHS teacher, principal, and coach, presented Mr. Brewer with the first official game ball, and Mrs. Katy Wright, also a now retired CHS teacher, spoke at the dedication ceremony in October of 1980.
